* Replacement Year, based on 5 year replacement for PCs and 5 year for servers

Key to	Type Field
Vol.	= Volunteer / Layperson use computers
WAD	= WeekDay Administrative Computers
WCL	= Weekday Classroom Computers

NOTES:

All computers from Dell were purchased with a 3 year, next business day, on-site warranty

At the end of 3 years, the warranty can be extended with Dell for 1 or 2 more years, for a total of 5 year warranty.

The 2 year extension has historically always been done on server equipment and often done for Personal computers

Dates highlighted in Green in "War. Expired" (Warranty Expired) column indicate the end of the 3 year original warranty on the computer.

I typically would budget for extending the warranty on these in the third year.

Dates in the RY Column (replacement year) are for PCs reaching the 5 year mark and should be budgeted for replacement in that year.

The WeekDay program has paid for all computers in Weekday except for the Director's desktop computer, which was originally purchased by the church. The current PC was purchased by insurance funds after the fire.

As can be seen above, the year 2012 will be a big year for replacing PCs due to it being 5 years after the fire.

I suggest breaking those out and replacing 1/2 of them in 2011 and the other half in 2012 to spread the hit across 2 years.
